TV-movies (1993–96)

Title	Directed by	Written by	Original release date
Hart to Hart Returns	Peter H. Hunt	Richard Chapman, James G. Hirsch & E. Jack Kaplan	November 5, 1993
Jonathan expresses an interest in buying an aircraft company from a friend, and finds himself implicated in a murder case when corrupt defense contractors aim to prevent the takeover. Meanwhile, Jennifer has difficulty getting her latest story published and Max experiences problems training Freeway Jr.
Hart to Hart: Home Is Where the Hart Is	Peter H. Hunt	Lawrence Hertzog	February 18, 1994
When Jennifer's beloved teacher and mentor dies suddenly, she leaves the town she owned, Kingman's Ferry, to Jennifer. A trail of mysterious clues leads the Harts to long-kept secrets about the town that were directly tied to her friend's "accident," and it looks like they're destined to meet the same fate unless they can solve the mystery of Kingman's Ferry before it's too late.
Hart to Hart: Crimes of the Hart	Peter H. Hunt	Lawrence Hertzog	March 25, 1994
Someone is trying to sabotage a Broadway production of a play Jennifer wrote in college. When one of the stage hands is murdered, even Jonathan is a suspect. The Harts don't have much time to ensure that the show will go on.
Hart to Hart: Old Friends Never Die	Peter H. Hunt	Lawrence Hertzog	May 6, 1994
Jonathan and Jennifer travel to publisher Alfred Raines' private island for a party at which Raines is hoping to sign Jennifer to a writing contract. When Jennifer overhears someone plotting to murder a man during the weekend, she and Jonathan set out to discover who's trying to kill who and almost get themselves killed in the process.
Hart to Hart: Secrets of the Hart	Kevin Connor	Rob Gilmer	March 6, 1995
At a Hart Industries charity auction, Jennifer finds a locket that could hold the key to unlocking Jonathan's early years spent at the Mission Street Orphanage and the family he never knew. An exhibit of antique gold coins in danger of being stolen during the gala day of the auction also figures in the plot. Notes: Lionel Stander, who had played Max since the series started, died on November 30, 1994; this TV-movie marks his last appearance in this series. Donald Trump makes a cameo as himself.
Hart to Hart: Two Harts in 3/4 Time	Michael Tuchner	Mart Crowley & Donald Ross	November 26, 1995
Grief-stricken Jonathan and Jennifer travel to Montreal for the reading of Max's will. A special gift from Max to the Harts holds the key to murder, intrigue, and suicide. The episode's color copy is badly faded.[4]
Hart to Hart: Harts in High Season	Christian I. Nyby II	Mart Crowley	March 24, 1996
The Harts travel to Australia to purchase a wildlife reserve from Jennifer's former love interest. Believing that Jonathan stole Jennifer from him years before, Elliott Manning plots to frame Jonathan for his murder and take back his beloved Jennifer.
Hart to Hart: Till Death Do Us Hart	Tom Mankiewicz	Bill Froehlich & Mark Lisson	August 25, 1996
Munich is the setting of yet another Hart anniversary, except this time Jennifer takes on a whole new personality. She's there to save a young boy's life, who knew she'd have to save her own too.

Note: This TV-movie, which was the last of the series, was broadcast exactly 17 years after the series pilot and has the same director.
